Training is on actual race tracks. Owners get experienced Porsche drivers as personal instructors helping them develop personal driving skills at their own pace. In just one weekend with an instructor, an owner can grow to appreciate the remarkable handling ability of his/her car and control it as never before.

There are several gradations of racing instruction available to owners through the Club:

The POC Short Track Series is the entry level series where owners can compete for fastest lap times, with the option of continuous lapping under the guidance of experienced, safety conscious event managers.

The POC Time Trial Series is the next step with competition on tracks all over California and beyond.

The POC Cup Racing Series is wheel to wheel racing against other drivers with similar skills and equipment.
